

2020 Alabama History Institutes: Grades 10-12

Using and Creating Oral History for the Secondary Classroom

Caroline Marshall Draughn Center for the Arts & Humanities, Auburn

June 29, 2020

Blake Busbin, Auburn City Schools

Join us for a one-day workshop on June 29th in which we explore ways that oral history can enhance learning in the secondary classroom. Sources and methods for bringing in existing oral history exploring Alabama's past will be highlighted. In addition, methods and resources to build one's own oral history program at their school will be discussed. Examples, templates, and resources will be provided as well as expert advice from both teachers and historians. This is a great workshop for those teachers hoping to enrich their classroom by drawing the community in via storytelling of their lives.
