

2024 Alabama History Institutes: Grades 6-12

Pathbreaking Alabama Women

Wallace Community College, Selma
June 4-6, 2024

Simone Thomas, Montgomery Public Schools
Treasure Green-Ritzus, Montgomery Public Schools

Participants in this three-day workshop will use a range of resources to explore the contributions of Alabama women to social movements throughout American history. Artifacts, documents, site visits, and speakers will immerse participants in the lives, struggles, and accomplishments of Alabama women who defied societal constraints and demanded better for themselves and future generations.

Participants will increase content knowledge, consider fresh perspectives, and explore research-based instructional practices they can tailor to fit the unique needs of learners in their classrooms.
